

WHERE IS THE OVEN MADE AND WHO IS THE MANUFACTURER?

Wood Stone has been in the oven building business since 1990. During that time we've built approximately 8,000 ovens, all of them made right here in Washington State, USA. To date, we have never replaced a Wood Stone, although we've replaced many other manufacturers' ovens in that time.

We are proud of the fact that all of the ovens we've manufactured are still in good working order, and with the temporary exception of closed restaurants or ovens in transit, all of our ovens are cooking today, even oven Number 1.

We also take pride in the fact that we build our ovens from the ground up including the heart of our ovens, the proprietary ceramic that makes the ovens work so well. We are not importers or assemblers of pre-manufactured components. We take pride in, and the responsibility for everything that we build. We are here for you today, and we will be around as your oven partner for many years to come. Remember, you're not just making a decision on a piece of equipment, you're making a decision on who to partner with as you pursue your dream.
