The Jospier by Wood Stone Charcoal Broiler Oven

Bellingham, WA, April 8, 2009 – Wood Stone joined forces with Jospier of Spain to introduce a unique, high production charcoal broiler oven to the North American Market at this years NAFEM show in Orlando.

The Jospier by Wood Stone Charcoal Broiler Oven (CBO) combines the flavor profile of a solid fuel charcoal broiler with the roasting of an oven, all while decreasing the venting challenges most often associated with solid fuel charbroilers.

“Wood Stone is proud to add these new units to our growing Wood Stone family,” says Kurt Eickmeyer, Wood Stone’s Vice President of Sales and Marketing. “Our customers are constantly asking for new product options and this fills a niche that we believe restaurateurs will benefit from adding to their operations. And while this is a new product to North America, Jospier’s 40 years of history and more than 9,000 clients tell us that the CBO has something unique to offer.”

The unit comes with two adjustable broiler racks that allow the chef to cook a wide variety of meats and vegetables in the oven simultaneously; making this a versatile piece of equipment, capable of very high production.

By combining the features of an enclosed oven with the traditional characteristics of charbroiled cooking, this piece offers efficiency in utilizing the heat produced by the charcoal. The dual damper system helps minimize charcoal consumption while allowing the unit to maintain high cooking temperatures for extended periods of time, and helps to greatly influence and enhance the flavor profile of the foods being cooked.

The Jospier by Wood Stone Charcoal Broiler Oven is available in a 26" x 28" model, a 37" x 28" model, and a 37" x 38" model.
